Happy Trees

As the men picked up
Their mighty saws,
All the animals pleaded
With folded paws:

“Oh ! Please don’t cut
Our trees down
To make chairs for yourselves
In the town.
If you cut and take
Our trees away

Birds and squirrels
Will have nowhere to stay.
There would be no shade
In which to stand
And the burning sun
Will turn the earth to sand.”

So the men
Took their saws away
And with happiness
All trees began to sway.

NINA AND THE BABY SPARROWS

There was great joy in Nina's house. Nina's aunt was getting married. Nina, her father, mother and little brother were all going to Delhi for a wedding. Everyone was happy, except Nina.

Her mother took her to a market to buy a new dress.

“What colour would you like?,” The mother asked.

“I don't want a new dress, Mother”, said Nina.

“Salwar-kameez then?”

Nina shook her head.

“What about that lovely pair of white shoes you saw last week?”

“I don't want that, either. Thank you, Mother.”

Nina's mother was upset, but she said nothing. They went back home and had lunch. After lunch mother came and sat near Nina.

“What is it, child?”, she asked. “Why did you say 'no' to everything?”

“Mother, I don’t want to go to the wedding.”

“But why?”

Nina said nothing.

Instead, two big tears rolled down her cheeks.

The mother put her arms around Nina. “Don’t cry, my pet,” she said.

“Why don’t you tell me what’s bothering you?”

More tears rolled down

Nina’s cheeks. “mother,” she said, “there’s a sparrow’s nest on the bookshelf in my room. And there are two baby sparrows in the nest.”

“I see...”, said the mother.

“They’re just beginning to get their feathers. And growing up makes them so hungry. All day long they cry ‘cheep-cheep’, asking for food.”

“I see!”, said the mother.

“If we go, the whole place will be locked. And how will papa and mama sparrows feed their babies?”

“Oh! Nina,” cried the mother, giving her a hug. “Is that why you don’t want to go to the wedding? But that’s no problem at all. We’ll leave the window open.”

“Oh! can we, mother? Can we? Really!”

“Yes, yes. We’ll remove all your things from the room and lock the door from outside. So the house will be perfectly safe and papa and mama sparrows can come and go freely, too. Just think, Nina... while you enjoy yourself at the wedding, the baby sparrows will be getting nice and fat in their nest. Good idea, isn't it.?"

It was a good idea. When Nina came back from the wedding, there were two plump little sparrows flying all over the room. And Nina was thrilled!

THEMESTrees*Love for nature*Suggestions For Classroom Teaching

Before starting the lesson in the classroom, the teacher is suggested to do a bit of exercise. As far as teaching methodology is concerned, the teacher should lay more emphasis on the experiences/observations of the child which should become the base of knowledge learning rather than the textual knowledge.

The teacher should be more particular about the constructive approach of learning which strikes the cords of experience/observation/imagination; which shall become the stimulus for gaining knowledge by children.

It does not in any way signify that the behaviouristic approach or the textual knowledge should be totally avoided or neglected, wherever necessary the teacher should make use of it to clear the concepts for the benefit the students.

- Recite the poem to the students.
- Make them understand the theme of the poem.
- Give them the chance to speak about nature (environment, birds, rivers, lakes, animals, etc.).
- Try to extract information from them on the basis of their experiences and observations.
- Introduce them rhyme scheme of the poem.
- Take them out in the garden and recite the poem there. The meaning of the difficult words would become clear.
- Tell them to identify the trees outside and make them say their uses.
- Introduce the story to children.
- Read the story aloud to children. The story may be retold with the help of the pictures.
- Take them out in the garden and ask them to identify different birds.
- Talk about differences between different kinds of birds, e.g., in size, shape, colour, beaks, sounds, etc.
- Children could be asked to bring pictures of birds to class. Tell them to make a chart of these pictures.
- Discuss with children how sparrows are becoming fewer in cities and towns. What would this mean for us?
- Give children brief idea about the life in a city and the life in a village.
- Try to incite their minds by making them understand diversity in nature.
- Ask them how we preserve nature.

THE SHIP OF THE DESERT

Lion (roaring): Who are you?

Camel (looking down at the Lion):

I am the Ship of the Desert. Who are you?

Lion: Don't you know me? I'm the King of the Forest.

Camel: Are you? Oh, I see.

Lion (frowning): You call yourself the Ship of the Desert. How can you be a ship, you're an animal?

Camel (smiling): So I am, but people call me the Ship of the Desert. I can walk across the desert even on a hot afternoon. The sand burns but it doesn't bother me.

Lion: I can't believe it.

Camel: Can you walk across a desert?

Lion (blinking): No, I can't, but I can run in the forest.

Camel (with disdain): Every animal can do that. I alone can run on sand. I can run on sand at 25 kilometres an hour.

Lion (wonderingly): How can you do that?

Camel: Look at my feet. They are thick and padded. The hot sun does not burn them.

Lion: My feet are padded too. Thorns don't prick them and I can run 80 kilometres an hour.

Camel: That is true. You can run 80 kilometres an hour in the forest but can you run even a mile on the hot sand?

Lion: May be not but....

Camel (interrupting): And you can't live without water for a week, can you?

Lion: No, I can't. I need water everyday. But don't tell me you can do without water?

Camel: Yes, I can. There are no rivers or lakes in the desert. But that does not bother me. I can drink 200 bottles of water at a time.

Lion: Really! You must have a big stomach!

Camel (proudly): Yes, I have a big stomach. I can store water for a week. I can store food for two weeks even.

Lion (showing a lot of interest): Do you store food in your stomach?

Camel: No, I don't. I store it in my hump. I eat a lot of food at one time. Then I don't need to eat for a fortnight.

Lion: That's interesting. But what do you eat?

Camel: I eat leaves, but there are no trees in the desert.

Lion: What do you eat there?

Camel: There are thorny bushes in the desert. I eat the thorns. The thorns don't prick my thick tongue.

Lion: How funny!

Camel: Mr King of the Forest, please come with me to the desert.

Lion: No, I'd better not. I can't walk on burning sand, I can't store food and water and I can't eat thorns. Good bye and good luck, Mr Ship of the Desert.

Show the class the pictures of different animals and talk about how they are suited to their habitats, e.g., webbed feet and feathers of the duck, fur of the animals in the cold regions, etc.

UNIT III

My Home

Let's Read

Of all the houses in the world
The one that I love the best
Is that in which I wake and play
And lay me down to rest.

My father built it by his toil,
My mother makes it home.
You cannot find a happier place
No matter where you roam.

The rooms are clear and bright and fair
With pictures, books, and toys,
And food, and clothes, and beds, and chairs
For all us boys and girls.
So full of love and joy it is,
So safe and bright and warm,

I would not go too far from it
Lest I should come to harm.

Where There Is a Will, There Is a Way

Come children, sit here. I'll tell you a story of a child who worked very hard to study.

'Grandma whose story is this', asked a child. This is the story of a boy who made it to the sky. Rafi was his name. He came to our house as a helper but left it like a victorious man.

Poor fellow needed some work. He had no father and his mother did not keep good health. He had two younger siblings.

He was only ten when his father left him.

Nothing to do and nothing to eat, Rafi did not know which way to go.

He wanted to study but fate had something else to offer him.

Rafi was studying in fourth standard when he had to leave his school to support his family. It was only a few bucks he earned, that helped the family to survive.

He joined a car denter's shop where he cleaned the cars and prepared tea for his master. The master gradually began to train him in mechanical skill.

He missed his school, his class, his books and friends. The hands which should have held pen were blackened with grease.

Rafi wanted to study. From a meager salary of rupees five hundred he saved some bucks and got books. After working hours, he would straight away go to home and study.

Anything that he did not understand, he would note it down and go to the headmaster's home on Sundays. The headmaster sensing his passion to study could do nothing but help him. This encouraged Rafi a lot.

The headmaster enrolled him in class X and somehow he managed to pass his 10th class exams.

Then he wanted to join the college but he had neither time nor money.

The headmaster introduced him to your grandpa who agreed to keep him in the house. Rafi would do all the household chores during the day and study at night. The grandpa too sensed his passion to study gave him some relief by teaching him in the evening for an hour.

Rafi got so encouraged that he passed his graduation in the first division. All that he would buy from his salary was books.

Rafi then wanted to join a university, but how would he support his family.

He started giving tuitions to children after he came from the university and studied late in the evening.

He topped the exams and struggled many years for a job. Ultimately, he was selected as a teacher in the university. He preferred to become a teacher because he believed that a teacher is an architect of the nation.

Now, what lesson do you learn from Rafi's story?

Where there is a will, there is a way.

Do you know, children, that Abraham Lincoln was a very poor boy. But he worked so hard that he became the President of the United States of America. He was a poor man who walked several kilometers to attend his school.

HE IS MY BROTHER

Once upon a time, there was a small hill. A path went up the hill. It went through thick and lovely woods of pine, peepal and banyan trees. People often walked on it to a holy place. One day, when the sun shone high in the sky many people were seen climbing up the hill. They were climbing slowly and carefully.

A girl also climbed the hill with them. Her name was Meena. Meena was twelve years old. She carried a small boy on her back. He was four years old. His hair were curly. His eyes were black and his face was as fresh as morning dew.

As the sunshine danced through the trees, Meena climbed the hill slowly and slowly. Meena was happy. The boy was also happy.

A man in the group looked at Meena. He felt sorry for her. He asked her, "My child, why are you carrying a boy on your back. Don't you feel his load?"

Meena looked at him in wonder. She could not understand him. (Her brother

Let's know these signs

Sign Language is a visual language, consisting of signs, gestures, finger spellings and facial expressions.

Children who cannot hear may use sign language for communication. Sign language uses the hands to send information and the eyes to receive them. It is a visual manual language system with its own sentence structure and word order. Usually, words are signed and spoken at the same time. Using this method for young children with disabilities is sometimes referred to as total communication. Although using sign language is important for communication, it can also be an adventure for everyone.

Here are some words that you can learn in sign language. Show and say as seen in the pictures below:

Sing

Right “open” hand: Its face touches the mouth and moves to the right like waving.

Dance

Both “zero” hands, facing out, move from shoulder to front of chest alternately twice.

Read

Both “open” hands, palms facing at chest level, move from side to side in a symmetric way.

Write

Act out as if writing on the palm of the left hand.

Win

Right “thumbs-up” hand, move up to right shoulder from front of chest.

Lose

Right “thumbs-up” hand, moves from right shoulder to front of chest to end with thumb pointing down.

Sunrise

Sunset

Right “bent five” hand, facing left, moves from above the head to the waist level on the left side, and rests facing down.

THEMES

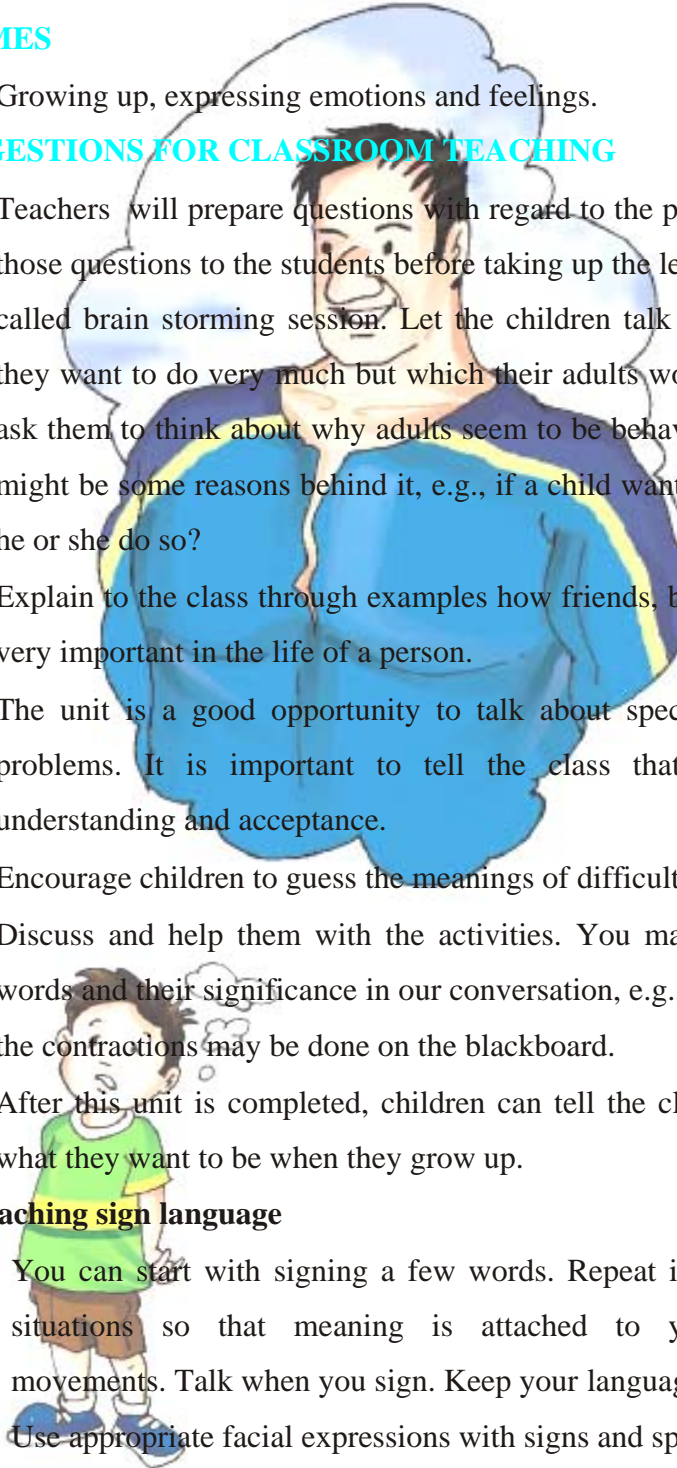

- Growing up, expressing emotions and feelings.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLASSROOM TEACHING

- Teachers will prepare questions with regard to the prescribed lesson and will pose those questions to the students before taking up the lesson with the students. This is called brain storming session. Let the children talk individually about something they want to do very much but which their adults won't let them do. You can then ask them to think about why adults seem to be behaving unreasonably and if there might be some reasons behind it, e.g., if a child wants to drive a vehicle why can't he or she do so?
- Explain to the class through examples how friends, brothers, sisters and family are very important in the life of a person.
- The unit is a good opportunity to talk about special children, their needs and problems. It is important to tell the class that special children need our understanding and acceptance.
- Encourage children to guess the meanings of difficult words, before you explain.
- Discuss and help them with the activities. You may explain short forms of the words and their significance in our conversation, e.g., are – 're, will – 'll. Listing of the contractions may be done on the blackboard.
- After this unit is completed, children can tell the class about their ambitions, i.e., what they want to be when they grow up.

For teaching sign language

- You can start with signing a few words. Repeat in different situations so that meaning is attached to your hand movements. Talk when you sign. Keep your language simple. Use appropriate facial expressions with signs and speech.

UNIT VI

Have you ever collected shells? Enjoy this poem about a shell that sings.

Sea Song

I found a shell, a curly one,
Lying on the sand.
I picked it up and took it home,
Cold inside my hand.

Mummy looked at it and then
She held it to my ear,
And from the shell there came a song,
Soft and sweet and clear.

But it was really true.
I wish you'd find a nice big shell
And hear it singing too!

A Little Fish Story

There are a great many million fish in the sea, but this story is about just one of them, and a very small one.

Now this little fish had everything in the sea to make him contented, but he was not happy. You will laugh when I tell you why he was not. He was unhappy because he was very small.

“It is very hard to be such a little mite of a fish!” he would say, over and over again. “If I were only larger, how much happier I could be.” And he said it so many times that I think he believed it.

One day he was swimming along with its shoal and thinking, no doubt, how larger fish had to be thankful for their size than him when suddenly, with no warning, he found himself along with its shoal in the mesh of a great net.

There was much floundering and splashing as the net was drawn up out of the water into the sunlight, and just as its haul was being emptied into the boat, the smallest fish in the shoal wriggled through the mesh and slipped back into the cool clear water. How good it felt!

He swam here and there and everywhere, and some of the fish who knew him well all the rest of his life, said that they never again heard him say that he wished to be anything but a little fish.

Does a balloon man visit your market? Let's see what this balloon man brings with him.

The Balloon Man

He always comes on market days
And holds balloons – a lovely bunch –
And in the market square he stays.
And never seems to think of lunch.
They're red and purple, blue and green.
And when it is a sunny day,
The carts and people get between;
You see them shining far away.
And some are big and some are small,
All tied together with a string.
And if there is a wind at all
They tug and tug like anything.
Some day perhaps he'll let them go
And we shall see them sailing high,
And stand and watch them from below —
They would look pretty in the sky!

THE YELLOW BUTTERFLY

A yellow butterfly flew around in Sonu's garden.

Sonu saw the butterfly. He ran to catch it.

The butterfly flew to a rose bed. It sat on a red rose.

“Now I can catch it!” said Sonu.

He walked slowly and silently to catch the butterfly. He came closer, closer, and still closer, but then off flew the butterfly!

Where did the butterfly go?

Near the garden was a pond. In the pond was a white lotus.

Around it grew round leaves.

They floated in the water.

The butterfly sailed on a floating leaf.

Sonu went splash into the water and off flew the butterfly!

Where was it? Sonu looked up, he looked down.

Near the wall was a peach tree. It had pink flowers.

The butterfly sat on a pretty flower.

“I can catch you!” shouted Sonu.

He climbed up the tree.

Up, up he climbed, but back it flew, down from the tree.

Sonu jumped down too. He chased the butterfly,

From the rose, to the lotus, and,
up the peach tree, but he could not catch the butterfly.

Sonu could not see it at all.

He looked everywhere. At last he saw the butterfly.

There was a big spider's web in the peach tree. The butterfly was caught in the spider's web. It looked sad as it tried to escape. It fluttered its wings. It twisted and turned. But it could not escape. The spider's web held it tight.

Poor butterfly!

In the middle of the web was a big spider. It looked hungry.

It wanted to catch the butterfly.

Closer and closer crawled the brown spider.

Before the hungry spider could grab it, Sonu ran and...

he caught the butterfly!

It was so pretty. It had brown spots on its yellow wings.

Sonu loved the little butterfly.

But it looked sad in Sonu's hand.
Sonu wanted it to be happy.

“Go,” said Sonu,

“Fly away!”

He let the butterfly go. It sat on the red rose. It flew to the peach tree and then sailed on the lotus leaf. It flew merrily from flower to flower.

Sonu watched it fly and fly.

The butterfly flew all around Sonu's garden....happy and free once again.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLASSROOM TEACHING

- With a new poem, ask children to remember words and their meanings.
- While reading, let children look for lines they like the most, and help them visualize pictures.
- You can bring a packet of brightly coloured balloons and thread to class. Take the children out into the playground. Let each child blow one balloon and tie it tightly with a piece of thread. Now make them run and leave the balloons and watch them fly up with the breeze. Talk about how long they will fly in the sky. Talk also about the other things one can see in the sky including birds, butterflies, balloons, clouds, etc. and their different colours. Tell pupils about rainbow.
- The story must be read in clear voice, and with appropriate expressions so that it is conveyed vividly to pupils and will live in the memory of the pupils.
- Take children outdoors if possible, where they see butterflies on flowers and tell them about how they feed on nectar. Draw the body of a butterfly on the blackboard. Talk to the children about its different parts.

Paper folding activity: Give every child a square piece of paper. Let them colour it with dots and lines before making a butterfly.

- Help children to make colourful balloons by cutting pictures from old magazines and newspapers. They can stick these on chart papers and put them up in the class.
- Help children to find out the colours in the maze by encircling the words and by reading the letters vertically and horizontally.
- Explain the difficult words in the text. You can supply pictures for them. Write new sentences on the blackboard. This way you can also teach words and sentences and later a long word, a sentence, etc. Jumbled sentences can be presented in some attractive way to be corrected by the child. But give structures to pupils and try to get structures from pupils and not broken sentences.

MY SILLY SISTER

Mother, your baby is silly! She is very childish!
She does not know the difference between the lights in the streets and the bright stars.

When we play with pebbles, she thinks they are real food. She even tries to put them into her mouth. When I open a book before her and ask her to learn her a b c, she tears the pages with her hands and roars with joy at nothing. This is your baby's way of doing her lessons!

When I shake my head at her in anger and scold her, or call her naughty, she laughs and thinks it great fun.

Everybody knows that father is away, but sometimes I call out "father" playfully. She looks in excitement and thinks that her father is near.

Sometimes I hold a class with the donkeys that our washerman brings to carry away the dirty clothes. I warn her that I am the schoolmaster and that she better not make any noise. Only then, she keeps quiet. I insist that she should call me "dada".

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLASSROOM TEACHING

- Read the poem with proper stress and intonation. Help the children to recite the poem with you with appropriate actions.
- Let them also read and enjoy the poem silently.
- Encourage the children to guess the meanings of difficult words, before you explain.
- Ask the children to bring one inland letter each. Show them on the blackboard where to write the date, address, etc. Ask them to write a letter with a proper beginning and ending. This can also be done in pairs.
- Draw a postcard. Help pupil to write address, date and body and conclude it.
- If it is possible, arrange a visit to the local post office.
- Children can also make greeting cards with colourful drawings. Encourage them to fold paper in different ways to make cards, e.g., a card with a border, a card opening in the middle, a card folded into four and so on.
- Discuss the different forms of communication like telephone, telegram, e-mail, etc. with advantages and disadvantages of each.
- You should enjoy telling the story. The teacher does not tell it merely to inform, enlighten or amuse but because it is something good, and delightful.
